Traffic School Start Ordered

CLASS TO BE FOR LAW VIOLATORS, PUBLIC, PUPILS

Committee Makes Plans Today For Start of School to Cut Accidents

Definite establishment of a traffic school at Chaffey was ordered at a meeting of a community safety committee this afternoon.

Classes are scheduled to be held regularly with the purpose of giving instruction in road rules to students and the general public and to give special attention to persons who have violated traffic regulations.

Chaffey junior college is scheduled to sponsor the course. Those in attendance will be recorded and thus the "average daily attendance" of the institution will be increased. Enough funds from the state's educational allotment can be thus made available to defray cost of the class.

The school will bring to reality a long-contemplated plan of doing something about the mounting toll in auto accidents.

Advisability of making the school permanent was pointed out, it being the plan to maintain the school indefinitely. Motorists arrested here from some other city may be cited to traffic schools in their home district. Local motorists arrested elsewhere may be cited to attend the local school.

Among those at the meeting were Norman S. Lawson, who served as chairman; Richard G. Manley, D. J. Cameron, Ernest C. Mehl, Judge D. J. Burlingame and Earl E. Marsh, all of Upland, and John Frost of Etiwanda.

David Seares Buys Thompson Brothers Young Lemon Grove

The Thompson Brothers five-acre lemon grove on West Thirteenth street has been sold to David N. Seares, foreman at Old Baldy Citrus association plant, and Mr. and Mrs. Seares are preparing to make their home there.

The residence on the grove is being completely remodeled and enlarged and will be an attractive home in an equally attractive location.

The grove was owned jointly by Leigh Thompson of Upland and his brothers, Guy and Glenn Thompson of Pomona. The brothers are dissolving partnership and the grove was sold for that reason.

Leigh Thompson retains his other citrus interests here and Glenn Thompson has acquired a 10-acre grove on Twenty-second street, five acres having been purchased from Harry Hixson and five from Mr. Seares.

Mrs. Francisco Hurt In Crash Near Las Vegas

Narrowly escaping serious injury, four Uplanders figured in an automobile accident late Saturday night 40 miles from Las Vegas, Nevada.

Mrs. DeVon Francisco suffered a cut over the right eye and a deep scalp wound when the machine in which she was riding turned over. In the car also were Mr. Francisco and Mr. and Mrs. Paul T. Benton. Mr. Benton was driving his machine, the couples being on a week end trip to Boulder dam.

Rain made the highway slippery and at one unusually slick portion of the pavement the car skidded and rolled over. Another machine following the Benton car also turned over when it struck the slippery portion of the pavement. Two women were slightly injured. A fruit truck rushed the injured to the Las Vegas hospital. The Upland party visited the dam Sunday and returned home later.

HUNDREDS ATTEND EASTER SERVICES

Special Services Held During Sunday, Beginning With Sunrise Program

Special Easter services drew large numbers to the various churches of the community Sunday and inspiring messages in sermon and song were heard by the hundreds of worshipers.

The young people of several of the churches held early morning services, either at the churches or at the homes of some of the members.

Approximately 100 persons gathered at Sunrise Point in San Antonio canyon above Camp Baldy and stood in several inches of snow to participate in a sunrise service.

The sky above the mountains was clear as the first rays of the sun tipped the peak of Sunrise Point, but within a few minutes after the program had begun, clouds gathered quickly and a cold wind sprang up, whipping the snow from the tree branches in flurries that resembled a snow storm.

The impressive service was featured by an Easter message delivered by the Rev. Arthur E. Schultz, pastor of the First Methodist church in Ontario.

With occupancy of the new building the science building was partially vacated. As a WPA project the structure will be torn down. No definite provisions have been made for construction of a new building on that site.

To serve the Upland-Ontario district, P. H. Brown was named chairman and Paul R. Daggs of Upland vice chairman, with C. M. Huston and Frank P. Sullivan also on the committee. The organization meeting of this group was held in the West Ontario Citrus association building yesterday.

A farm survey has been completed and it will be up to the committee to supervise ranch properties that will build up the soil. Payments will be made to ranchers for growing cover crops and doing other practices in keeping with the program.

A meeting to elect a committee in Cucamonga, Alta Loma and Etiwanda was scheduled for this afternoon.

PUBLIC PROBLEMS TO BE DISCUSSED

Noted Churchman Is Holding Sessions at Methodist Church Today

Beginning with a public session at 2 o'clock and closing with a second session at 7:30 this evening, a conference on the present social and economic conditions and the attitude of the church toward those problems is being held today in the Upland Methodist church.

The leader of the conference is Dr. Charles C. Webber of New York, international executive secretary of the social service department of the Methodist church. He is an able speaker and an experienced leader of discussions and the conference holds much of interest to the general public.

Dr. Webber is making but two other appearances in Southern California, one being in the Fullerton Methodist church and the other in Dr. Roy Smith's First Methodist church in Los Angeles.

Preceding this evening's session, a dinner will be held at the church at 6:30.

The public is invited to attend the conference.

RADIO BROADCAST ROTARY FEATURE

Program Announced To Come From San Francisco Proves Of Local Origin

At their meeting today noon at the Upland Inn, after a very welcome announcement by the program chairman, Kenneth Hanson, that Upland Rotarians would be privileged to listen to a program broadcast by the San Francisco club all settled back in their chairs to hear—what? Well, it was a conglomeration of "stuff" apparently originating in the fertile (?) brains (?) of "Mac the Quack" Medicine Man; Dick Manley, city mismanager; "Lay 'Em Away" Tweed Stone, and Goggles Misfitter Ralph Ryan—and thrust upon an unsuspecting lot of men. Harvey Siegrist had "rigged up" some kind of a contraption via a radio through which the broadcast filtered from an adjoining room, the entertainers (?) having the protection of a couple partitions between them and their audience as they "took a vile crack" at practically every member of the club. Well—anyhow, nobody was offended apparently. Chief of Police Ernie Mehl and Judge Del Burlingame, members of the club and both of whom were present, should have arrested and convicted the perpetrators before they finished—but their fellow Rotarians seemed to enjoy it and the offenders went unpunished.

The annual district Rotary convention will be held in Hollywood in April and Will Beattie gave a talk urging as many as possible attend.

Judge Burlingme, one of the club's newest members, gave a "Biography of a Small Town Judge in the Making," in which he related many interesting things that most of his fellow Rotarians did not know were a part of his life.

CASE INVOLVING $600 FRUIT DEAL IS ENDED TODAY

Two Fruit Buyers Freed as Plan Offered to Pay Uplanders

Two former independent fruit buyers, who allegedly owe two Uplanders approximately $600, were freed of any criminal charges in a justice court hearing this morning.

Charges filed against M. R. Brown and Joseph Markman were dismissed by Judge Fred H. Jacobs when it was revealed their entire check-dealing record had been studied by the superior court before that court granted them probation.

The men, arrested on complaint of C. B. and E. T. Jordan, were in court more than a year ago on charges of buying fruit without a commission license. They were granted probation by the court, one condition being they pay up the money due the Jordans.

When the Jordans failed to get the money a new complaint was issued. As the result of the court hearing this morning, the men and their attorneys agreed to make arrangements for fulfillment of their probation by paying the Jordans on the installment plan.

The fruit sold by the Jordans to the men consisted mostly of tangerines.

New House Started, 50 Acre Tract Sold Adjoining Red Hill

With construction under way on a new house and with 50 acres sold for subdivision purposes, additional activity is noted today in the vicinity of the Red Hill Country club.

Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Durman, Pasadena, are starting construction of a five room residence on the north side of Foothill boulevard just east of Kramer Bros. nursery office. A studio shop will be conducted as part of their residence.

Sale of 50 acres of property adjoining Red Hill Estates on the east has been made to Jack Casson, Los Angeles jeweler. According to H. F. Naisbitt, real estate dealer, Mr. Casson will erect a large house on the property and subdivide the remaining portion.

To Friends of Boys and Girls of Upland

Appeal Given For Funds In Youths' Work

Mayor Appeals for Support in Aiding Local Youth Work

At this time when the annual drive for funds for Boys' and Girls' Work is on, we have a chance to show just how much we believe in our boys and girls and what value we place on the future of Upland.

The program of the Boy and Girl Scouts is for character building and constructive training and as such is well worth while. In a few years it will be to these boys and girls that we will entrust the civic and business affairs of our city. Anything we can do to foster the high ideals and practical training sponsored by these two organizations, we should do. It is time and money well spent.

The leaders who are giving their time to this fine work deserve our support and the future of Upland rests with our youth.

Let us do our part.

—D. J. Cameron, Mayor

Scouting Program Keeps Youths Out Of Trouble—Mehl

"I have made a study of the effect of Boy and Girl Scout organizations on juvenile delinquency in our community, and find that very seldom any boy or girl belonging to the Scouts is involved in any difficulty," Chief of Police E. C. Mehl said.

"The Scout organizations train the boys and girls to make good use of idle moments by spending their time in increasing their knowledge of practical things and clean sports. It is much better to spend money to keep children out of trouble than to have to take care of them after they have gotten into trouble."

SUPPORT URGED BY LEADERS IN CITY

Give to Scouting, Plea of Men Who Are in Close Touch With Work

Representative civic, educational and religious men of the community today united in appealing for support of the Boy Scout and Girl Scout movement here. Their comments follow:

Gardiner W. Spring, president Chaffey junior college: "If we wish to make the Chaffey district a truly educational center, we must see to it that the out-of-school hours of our boys and girls are properly directed. For this portion of each day there is something more essential than parks or playgrounds; that is, a director who because of an understanding heart is able to motivate the activities of young people in such a way that these free hours become part of a character-building program.

"The district has made a splendid beginning, thanks to the effort of a few of our citizens who are

"Why I Am a Girl Scout" Is Told by Cucamonga Member

When I was a little girl, I used to see the Girl Scouts have lots of fun, and I liked their ways.

I used to say to myself, "I wish I were a Girl Scout," but I could not, because I was too young. As soon as I got to the age of ten I was enrolled as a Girl Scout.

After some time of being with the Girl Scouts I was taught all my duties of a Girl Scout.

I was very eager to learn them. I am still a Girl Scout because I like to do what a Girl Scout does.

The following are my duties:

Be trusted, be loyal, be useful and help others, be a friend to all and a sister to every other Girl Scout, be courteous, be friend to animals, and should obey orders, be cheerful, be thrifty and clean. I always try to obey my duties.

I hope I will keep up with scouting, make myself efficient as much as I can, be a good friend with all my sister Girl Scouts from other countries.

When I grow old, I will never forget my comrades of my scouting days.

—Lupe Martinez,
Cucamonga School, 13 years old,
Troop 19

Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts become self-reliant citizens. It is to help in this development that the entire community is interested. Your support of this fine work is urged for the coming year.

Boy Scout work is under the direction of O. A. Alderson, and the Girl Scout work under Miss Helen Gillard. They work through the scoutmasters and leaders in stimulating wholesome interests that help develop fine character.

In so far as we citizens of Upland assume our share in this work, we assure to our boys and girls the advantages of these nationally organized programs for the wise use of leisure and the building of better citizens. Just what we as a community put into our boys and girls today, we shall receive from them as men and women tomorrow.

Your help is needed for it is not only for children whose parents are unable to do their share—but for the others as well.

The committee would appreciate your sending in your contribution to E. T. Thudium, treasurer, at the Bank of America before the week of April 12, when they will make the personal calls on the people of the community.

Very sincerely yours, Upland Boys' and Girls' Work Committee —Mrs. Frank Nichols, Mrs. Alan Couch, Mrs. Leigh Thompson, Miss Ella Draper, H. N. Mason, O. E. Atwood, Norman S. Lawson, E. T. Thudium, treasurer.

SCOUTING VALUE IS EMPHASIZED

Parents and Leaders Tell of Character Building Activities

We wish to give our appreciation for what the Boy Scout organization has done not only for our boy but for many boys of our acquaintance. As an organization for teaching high ideals, respect for law, and how to live with others, Scouting has no equal. Right habits, formed in boyhood, have a distinct value in later years and we know that our boy received this training as a Boy Scout.

—From Two Grateful Parents

The two outstanding values of scouting are the molding of character and the development of leadership.

When the 12-year-old boy enters the troop for the first time you realize that he is nothing but a bundle of energy without any idea in mind regarding his responsibility toward himself or his fellow Scouts. You wonder whether he will ever amount to anything in this world. Then as he imbibes the spirit of cooperation and the doing of the "daily good turn" he gradually develops an attitude that is so far different that it is hard to recognize him as the same boy. You find that those who seem the most hopeless eventually develop the stability of character so necessary to the making of good citizens.

You watch and marvel at the boys who not long ago came into the troop so shy and backward. Now they step right out and lead their patrols or the whole troop with initiative and assurance. They are the leaders of the men of tomorrow.

—E. E. Hawthorne

In addition to having access to training in a varied field of skills and avocations, a Girl Scout has the opportunity to learn the art of

American Mother in Appeal for Support Of Work in Upland

"In working with young people, the support of the community is of the utmost importance," said Mrs. James Richard Smith of Claremont, chosen American mother for 1936.

"You have in your district a fine group of individuals who give of their time unstintingly for your boys and girls. But individuals need and to gain the best results must have the community heart and pocketbook back of them. Remember the boys and girls of today are the men and women of tomorrow.

"Invest your dollars in this most important enterprise—the building of a firm foundation for future good citizenship."

The News Tells of Activities and Need For Financial Aid

This issue of The Upland News is dedicated to the welfare of the boys and girls in the Upland district. Annual appeal for funds to carry on the worthy Boy Scout and Girl Scout program here is given through The News.

Information about the work is directed to all parents in the community. Those who are able financially are urged to respond.

The Boys' and Girls' Work committee is using The News to spread its appeal, and in so doing is deviating from the plan used in former years. Much of the material about the youths' program was prepared at the request of and under the direction of the committee members.

Warden Lawes Says Scouting Answers Needs of Youths

Lewis E. Lawes, warden of Sing Sing penitentiary, New York, wrote as follows in response to a request from the local committee:

"My dear Miss Draper—The tenets of the Boy Scout movement, based on the broadest foundations, meet the needs of every possible type of boy, irrespective of race, creed or environment. The Scouts teach a boy to know what is clean living, what is clean thinking and what is most important of all, his duty to his parents, his neighbors and his state. The love and desire for the good things in life can be developed in the boy with a lasting beneficial effect, so every community should give unreservedly to the support of the Boy Scouts.

"It is needless for me to add that the same argument applies in the Girl Scouts."

CAMP BIG FACTOR IN AIDING SCOUTS

Miss Gillard Tells Advantages Of Camps and of Program at Outings

By Miss Helen Gillard,
Dir. Chaffey Girls' Organizations

A camp for boys and girls has definite and peculiarly favorable opportunities for education. In part, these opportunities lie in camp environment, in the program and in the attitude of the campers. Doubtless, many parents wonder if they can afford to send "Tom" or "Helen" to camp this summer and if they do manage it—what will their child receive from it?

Boys and girls need camp because:

1—Camp develops fine qualities of human relationship in groups led by wisely chosen and trained leaders. "Probably the greatest social contribution which the camp vacation can make to any group of campers is an experience of successful cooperative life in group diverse in interests, skills, abilities, but all enjoying common activities."

2—Camp makes for health and health habits in a well established routine.

3—Camp offers a chance to learn wisdom in the woods and skills that will give him or her status in the group because there is no substitute for experience.

4—Camp trains for leadership because every boy and girl is treated as an individual.

5—Camp gives fun and adventure in an outdoor situation which has been developed to reach the best in safety and set up.

6—Camp tends to educate for leisure which is cited by some as "America's greatest undeveloped resource." Even though a camp is busy from morning until evening a spirit of leisure prevails. This because leisure time activities are those one chooses to do when one could be doing nothing.

The parent who sends his or her daughter to a camp has a right to be familiar with the precautions and safety as well as the program devices to insure a happy time for his or her child. Your local Boy and Girl Scout councils sponsor camps which endeavor to meet these objectives for the boys and girls of our community. The directors of these camps invite your questions.

FUNDS TO CARRY ON SCOUT PROGRAM IN UPLAND SOUGHT

Immediate Response Urged in Appeal for $1000 in Youths' Activity

"Youth does not wait. It must be served now."

That's the appeal today in the annual drive for funds to aid the Boys' and Girls' Work organization in the Upland district. Annual appeal for funds of at least $1,000 is sought to make possible the effective administration of the vast Boy Scout and Girl Scout program here.

Without this financial support it will be impossible for the character-building agencies to provide the constructive program and trained leadership, according to those in charge of the drive.

Scores of men and women give freely of their time in leading various troops of Scouts. Others, not active in Scout leadership, can do their part by paying the "overhead" expenses, it is pointed out. The money raised locally will go to pay this district's share of the general office expenses in supervising the vast youth program. In such work there are such items as transportation, training activities, promotion work, taxes, insurance, court of honor expenses and the national headquarters quota.

Each Scout provides his or her uniform and the sponsoring organization provides troop expenses. During a year, however, there are many items of expense in the general supervision of the constructive program that must be paid.

Immediate response to the appeal for funds is desired. Contributions are to go to Ed. T. Thudium, treasurer of the Boys' and Girls' Work committee here. On the committee directing the general work and in charge of the funds are Mrs. Frank Nichols, Mrs. Alan A. Couch, Mrs. Leigh Thompson, Miss Ella Draper, Howard N. Mason, Owen E. Atwood and Norman S. Lawson.

Boy Scouts in 56 Nations; Alderson Pictures Peace Hope

By O. A. Alderson,
Scout Executive, Old Baldy Council

Few people realize the extensive scope of scouting. Some 56 nations have this program for their youth, all using the same oath, the same laws, and the same general plan of organization. The ideals of all are basically the same, character building and citizenship training. No other movement world wide as scouting, has such similar ideals, therefore no other movement has such potential peace powers as far as the world as a whole is concerned. It is significant to note that neither Germany nor Italy has scouting at present.

Once every four years Scouts from all the countries are called together in an international jamboree, chiefly for peace purposes. Some 50,000 Scouts from all nations gathered together with a common aim, does have a very definite influence for the cause of peace. No Scout who has met another Scout from another nation has a desire to take up arms against that nation.

A Scout is friendly and a brother to every other Scout and that means what it says to the boys, regardless of creed, race or color.

Where can you find an organization so comprehensive in its scope and meaning, yet so vital in its program and effective in boy life? The need today, as far as scouting is concerned, is more Scouts, more leaders and more funds to spread the gospel of scouting to the world at large.

Rags to Riches—And Back Again

Most of us read a short time ago of those few "lucky" Americans who instantly jumped from rags to riches on the Irish sweepstakes tickets they held. No doubt thousands envied them—not thinking at the time that money thus gained is subject to the rule of "easy come—easy go."

It is also interesting to note that an enterprising journalist some months ago "tracked down" a half dozen such winners two years after their unexpected fortune of gold had been showered upon them. Here is what he found: Only one of the six had kept his gold and added to it. Two had squandered the cash that had come to them and had their noses back on the same old grindstone it had been released from such a short time previously. The others he found much worse off than they were before they were struck with sudden riches—they had ended up not only penniless, but were too spoiled by their short fling at "high living" to go back to plain, honest, hard work again.

Seldom does the public hear of the unhappy endings in such cases. When fabulous riches fall into the lap of the few we read of it at the time. Many of us then say: "The same thing might have happened to me if I had taken the same chance."

We read in the big headlines of the newspapers of the joyful exclamations of perhaps fifty winners—but there is no shouting from the five and a half million losers. As in every other gambling game—or game of chance of whatever kind—those Irish sweepstakes are run for profit. The winners are very few—the losers number into the millions. How many of those who were thus seeking "easy money" realize that the odds against them were 96,000 to 1? Even if they did, no doubt most of them would have had visions of being one in 96,000.

There have been several attempts to stop the sale of sweepstakes tickets in the United States, but they have failed. Laws or no laws, that urge in millions of humans to get something for nothing will not be denied. And even with a fifty-fifty chance of ruining their lives—as illustrated by the winners noted above—they would still take the chance.

That clergyman "back east" who made the sweeping indictment that all Hollywood movie people are "selfish and self indulgent," addicted to "taking wives in tandem" and given to a "form of marriage which is no better than progressive adultery," was certainly covering a lot of territory when he made it all inclusive. However, it must be admitted when one considers the number of times a good many of the movie folks take unto themselves wives and husbands—and for such short length of time—the clergyman's charge appears to be true to a certain extent. While it is no doubt true that marriage on the "off with the old and on with the new" plan is more prevalent among the movie stars—and among some who have not reached stardom—there is a certain amount of it among other people. And the clergyman should also realize that it is the sensational and unusual that gets into the newspapers—thus those in the movie colony who live happy and moral wedded lives do not get into the public prints so much. One wonders also if the reverend gentleman in the east has read something in the Bible about charitableness being one of the tenets of Christian religion—or perhaps that other which says: "Let him who is without sin among you cast the first stone."

As its share of the second half of the allocation of liquor license fees collected by the state during 1936 the city of Upland has been given $684.37, a similar amount having been received from the same source in the first allocation of funds of last year's liquor license fees. San Bernardino county's allotment is $56,019.85, and the total amount derived from liquor licenses in California in 1936 was $5,921,412.22. The allocation now made by the state is $2,958,009.26—half of which goes into the general fund of the state and the other half to the cities and counties. What a vast amount of liquor was consumed in California within one year to provide such a huge sum in license fees—and what a way to raise money! Quite significant, it would seem, is the statement by a board member that "This money is collected entirely by the state and represents income derived exclusively from liquor licenses. Its use, in part at least, for local liquor enforcement would seem to me a reasonable application." No matter how much the liquor industry is taxed there will never be enough tax derived therefrom to make it obey the law—there will always be the bootlegger to contend with, as well as many other law violations too numerous to mention—to say nothing of the human beings it ruins.

The claim is made that too little note is taken of men in the Easter parade. Many a husband has decked himself out in full masculine regalia and elegance on Easter morn—only to find that the apparition of feminine loveliness strolling by his side completely stole the show. The masculine half of the race is in much the same position on Easter morn as he is at his wedding—simply an "also ran." Poor man! He appears his sartorial best—only to have impressed upon him the fact that he is simply serving as background—or "atmosphere"—for the many pictures of feminine loveliness overshadowing him. But where is the man who would not have it thus? If the time ever comes—which it never will—when the men "outshine" feminine beauty and loveliness it will be just too bad for the women. It would mean that they had lost their charm and attractiveness.

"In a newspaper, one finds the best portrayal of daily life available in the United States today." Who says so? Wallace Cameron, professor of economics at the University of San Francisco, said so, just a few days ago, addressing an industrial conference on the relationship between capital and labor. Naturally, newspapers are glad to know that university professors, and particularly professors of economics, feel that way, for there is much of discouragement in the newspaper business, as in all businesses; many times there are more kicks than bouquets; all too often, editors—like other mortals—wonder, "Am I my brother's keeper? Just why did I get into this business, anyway?" But the professor is right. In any good newspaper, whether country weekely, or metropolitan daily, one finds the whole drama of life—tragedy and romance, whimsy and reality, marriage and divorce, life and death, defeat and victory! The story of a people, day by day; their loves and hates, their strikes and settlements; their laughter and their tears—that's your newspaper!

Mrs. Winter Attends State Meeting in City of Fresno

Mrs. Una R. Winter, who recently was appointed by the executive board of the Southern district, California Federation of Business and Professional Women's clubs, to serve as a member of the state nominating committee, returned Sunday evening from a meeting of the committee her return to Upland.

Miss Dana Williams of Ontario, president of the Southern district, was nominated for the office of second vice president of the state federation, it was announced by Mrs. Winter upon her return to Upland.

The state officers are nominated by vote of the individual clubs of the state and it is the duty of the nominating committee to check the ballots and determine which candidates are nominated.

The greatest task of the committee is to elect the 21 state directors from among the number recommended by the clubs, since the directors must be selected not only according to ability, but also to equitable apportionment, and the committee worked until after midnight Saturday to complete the list.

Mrs. Winter was accompanied on the trip by Miss Dana Williams, who visited with the Rev. and Mrs. Sumner Reynolds, formerly of Upland and Cucamonga, while the committee was in session.

On the homeward trip Sunday, Mrs. Winter and Miss Williams detoured by way of Shafter, a few miles from Bakersfield, where they had the pleasure of driving through fields of blue and gold and witnessing the wild flower festival.

Large fields of lupin are now blooming there, Mrs. Winter reports, with a generous sprinkling of the gold of the California poppy. There are also a showing of the lighter yellow sun cups and pincushions.

SCOUTING REDUCES JUVENILE PROBLEM

Belle Larmore Tells Cost of Delinquency and Need For Youth Work

Belle Larmore, county probation officer, today highly praised the Girl and Boy Scout program in "providing a strong bulwark against delinquency." She pointed out the huge cost of juvenile delinquency and added: "no better investment can be made than in the youth of America." She submitted the following facts relative to the juvenile delinquency problem in the county:

During the past year there were 627 hearings in juvenile court, 338 of these on petitions filed and others concerning juveniles who had been before the court on previous occasions and the matter continued, or in cases in which a petition for modification of a prior court order was filed. There were also 386 cases "settled out of court" in matters where complaints came into the probation office and were adjusted without the filing of a petition in juvenile court.

During 1936, 23 boys and five girls were committed to state schools, those boys under 16 years of age to the Whittier State school; those over 16 to the Preston School of Industry at Ione, and the girls to the Venture State school at Ventura.

Per capita cose of maintenance of the state schools varies from year to year, dependent upon the age group, the needs, and the type of care and training, but approximates $60 per month per child, this sum payable from the tax funds of county and state. The law provides that the county committing a child must pay the sum of $20 a month as its share of the maintenance expense of that child. It further provides that, if parents are able, an order shall be made requiring them to reimburse the county. Only a small minority are able to do this. No provision is made for reimbursement of the sum paid by the state.

The average length of stay of a child on commitment is 14 months in the Preston School of Industry, 16 months in the Whittier State school and approximately 18 months in the Ventura State school.

Last year $6,816.60 was paid from the San Bernardino county general tax fund to the state for San Bernardino county's commitments to state schools for boys and $1,704.70 for girls on commitment to Ventura State school, a total of $8,521.30, or a charge upon the taxpayers of $710.10 a month.

This is exclusive of the cost of individual investigations, court hearings, and subsequent supervision of those not committed to state institutions; of property loss suffererd by the communities, and of the greater loss of wasted youth.

From a national viewpoint, J. Edgar Hoover, director of the Department of Justice, recently stated: "We are confronted with the fact that 700,000 American boys and girls of less than voting age are included in the crime army of the United States."

Surely the above facts challenge fair thinking citizens to individually assist in every way available to prevent delinquencies and crime. Studies and statistics conclusively prove organized training, individually and by groups, along constructive lines of conduct is tremendously important in the prevention of juvenile delinquency. Group pressures is one of the strongest influences upon youth for either good or evil. Guidance, into proper channels of thinking and behavior, under competent leadership, as in the Girl and Boy Scouts develops trustworthy and dependable citizens.

H. S. Bailey Cites Scouting as Basis For World Peace

By H. S. Bailey

Our boy was born in Washington, D. C., on the very day that the great war began. Nineteen years later he celebrated his birthday in Hungary a few miles distant from the spot where the spark was struck that kindled into flame the conflagration we call the great war.

He was in Hungary in camp with 35,000 other boys from practically every country of the world at the international scout jamboree. He swapped everything from badges to belts with boys from Japan, South Africa, Australia, Egypt and all the rest. He ate with Scouts from Chili and China, pole vaulted and ran races with Scouts from Austria and Argentine, and as orderly at the camp postoffice delivered letters that would tempt a stamp collector to rob the mails. After living in camp for two weeks as a part of this great international, interracial organization, would our boy be willing to kill has camp mates in war?

As we know, the causes of war are fear, suspicion, greed, hate, economic rivalries, and exaggerated nationalism. None of these states of mind exist between men who know each other, and have learned to understand and admire each other. Any agencies which promote friendliness and mutual understanding will knock out the very foundations upon which war is built.

Scouting makes boys of every nation interested in each other, and as they read about one another, and write personal letters to each other, admiration and understanding grows.

Our Scout suggests that if all the diplomats and ambassadors of the world were brought up as good Scouts, war would cease.

living with others and the art of self government. As near as it is possible she chooses and directs her own activities. She learns the necessity of cooperation in the group and the responsibilities and obligations of the individual in a self-governed group, as well as the advantages of being able to vote yes or no on her favorite proposition.

—Mrs. F. W. Riddington,
Captain of an Upland Girl Scout Troop

Again we come to the time of year when individually and as a community we may have a part in furthering two of the finest character building organizations for young people. In the life of today, when distortion of values creep in so easily, it is indeed necessary that the boys and girls be allowed a clear-eyed, better understanding of life and of their relationship to their fellows.

Karl Menninger defines mental health as the adjustment of human beings to the world and to each other with a maximum of effectiveness and happiness. Not just efficiency, nor just contentment, or the grace of obeying the rules of the game cheerfully. It is all these together. It is the ability to maintain an even temper, an alert intelligence, socially considerate behavior, and a happy disposition.

If we can aid in any way these young people of ours to such a mental health as well as the health of a fine strong body and an appreciation of the beautiful world in which we live, surely our best efforts and interest are well worth while.

Much has already been accomplished due to the untiring zeal of a splendid group of men and women, but much is yet to be done to bring our organizations to the point where our goal can be most effectively reached. To accomplish this, not only criticism is needed, but also that fine and happy cooperation that so often characterizes community projects in Upland. Let us therefore work and play with our young people and not only give of our means and experience to them but in so doing gain for ourselves that vitality and fresh outlook that only youth can give.

—Winifred Johnson,
Commissioner of Chaffey Community Girls' Work

MRS. HOOVER IN PLEA FOR SUPPORT

Girl and Boy Scout Program Commended in Letter To Uplanders

Mrs. Herbert C. Hoover congratulated Upland Scout leaders on their united program for funds. Her letter follows:

What a splendid idea it is for your young people's organizations to unite in their appeals for funds to carry on their year's work!

It will do for them all what our twenty-fifth birthday is doing for our Girl Scouts—give them an opportunity of surveying their work of the past years and of planning more definitely for the future.

It also gives the community the opportunity of asking what their boys and girls are getting from these organizations and what they are giving back through them to their communities.

In answer, many cities and towns speak of the greater physical and intellectual development that their young people receive through the new skills, new enjoyments, and new interests acquired through this organization work and play.

Even more often is it remarked that these groups offer to their members the possibility of giving service, of extending helpfulness to many in need of their ministrations.

And perhaps the most oft-repeated comment is the very significant one that our young people's organizations give training in citizenship—that through them our boys and girls develop not only a recognition of their immediate responsibilities for the rights and welfare of others beyond the family circle, but the ability and the desire to assume and discharge such responsibilities.

In these answers we have the explanation of why thousands of cities and towns have found it worthwhile to make such a drive as Upland is now making for the successful maintenance of their community organizations.

Feeling sure that your community will meet with every success in this effort. I am, yours sincerely,
Mrs. Herbert Hoover.

Support Urged for Boys', Girls' Fund

sincerely interested in boys and girls. But more, much more, needs to be done. And this can only be done by bringing here trained leaders who are free to devote their entire time to this most important work."

Harold W. Cook, district superintendent, Upland schools: "The work of the character building agencies serving the youth of our country is of inestimable value. Proper leadership coupled with adequate financial support makes this program of great worth.

"The opportunity which these organizations afford for the development among our young people of avocational interests more than justifies the cost of maintenance. Citizens with worth-while avocational interests, are democracy's best insurance against the misuse of leisure time. The Boys' and Girls' Work program needs and is worthy of your support."

Ray C. Norton: "Since 1928 I have been trying to devote a little time and money to boys and girls work in our community. We have all made some investments—and some we may recall that perhaps make us sad, and let us hope, a little wiser. What little time I have taken from business and what little investment I may have made in scouting and girls work, I can frankly say has been, in my opinion, the most lucrative and satisfying of anything I have ever done.

"True enough—we have no actual measuring stick, nor mathematical calculation to develop the profits, but glance around and see for yourself the young men and women who have made good in the last few years, and who spent some of their junior years in scouting and girls work. These young folks are growing up to take their place in a busy world—to take your place and my place, and the more we can do to direct them into the channels of right living in their youth, the better country we will have to live in."

Charles V. Barr: "Executives and volunter leaders who are active in boys' and girls' work in this district have done a fine job in our community and I believe the work should receive the wholehearted support, not only of the fathers and mothers of the children, but also of the entire community."

Lester Hostetler, president Ministerial Association of Upland: "I believe that our boys and girls are the greatest asset in the community and that any organization whose purpose it is to implant worthy ideals and develop noble character is doing a work of the first order."

Paul F. Huebner, minister of the Upland M. E. church: "'God give us men.' Our generation desperately needs men of faith, courage, vision and high ideals. The Boy Scout organization, with its emphasis upon moral discipline, helpfulness and reverence for God, is one of the agencies in our community which helps develop such men."

In Our Back Yard by "OLE"

As Told to Dale Austin

You know this feller, Dr. Franz Sarga, who lives in Budapest, Hungary, really ought to live in Ameriky. He got plan which could be used by American politicians and would save us a lot of money and good newspaper space. I bane readin' in papers where the Doctor, who must be more skillful with the sword than American politicians are with words, really "goes to town." He has challenged and won three duels to date with other guys who made remarks he did not like. The remarks were about his wife. And yumpin' yiminy, he got eight more duels on his schedule.

He say to the other fellers what "stall," come on and fight. Funny ting, too, this feller he bane a bank clerk and fellers from banks don't say much. This feller really whole lot smarter than American politicians—they talk lots but do little fightin'. What they should do is start duelin'. And while we are on the subject, if the plan work good for American politicians, it might work better yet for the Hollywood colony. What news that would make for the Los Angeles news hounds. Headings would read like this, "Clark Gable Duels Stan Hardy at the Colesum Tomorrow Night" or "Mayor Shaw Takes on Three Political Opponents in a Duel Next Week."

The best part of Doctor Sarga's line is that he really means it. At the close of one of his duels he say, "Well, my honor is avenged." How much different in Ameriky. The two or dozen politicians after their argument usually in the open so the papers will carry the story next day, go out and have a game of golf together. Or maybe a cocktail. I tank I see my fren Joe one of these days and see what he tank about it. Aneyway, what you tank?

Easter Party for Children Is Held At Junior Library

The children who attended the regular story hour Saturday in the Sarah Temple junior library received a delightful surprise, for after the telling of several Easter stories by Miss Elizabeth Wright, children's librarian, a game designed to better acquaint the children with non-fiction books was introduced. A cordial welcome is extended to all children of the community to the story hour held each Saturday at two o'clock. At some time in the near future two of the boys who regularly attend are planning to put on a puppet show, which will be a great treat for all. It is hoped many children can be present.

KITE FLIERS IN MANY SCHOOLS TO COMPETE APRIL 6

Annual Event Will Include Alta Loma, Cucamonga, Etiwanda Youths

Schools in the Upland district will be in competition with each other next Tuesday when the ninth annual kite tournament is held. Students in Alta Loma, Cucamonga and Etiwanda have been invited to join with the Upland students in the event.

One contest will be on the basis of appearance and workmanship and other contests will be flying for distance. A speed contest will be another feature and a special event will be a parent and child contest for distance.

Students from the first to the fifth grades will be in one division and those in the sixth to ninth grades will be in another division. Cash prizes will be given the winners by the Upland chamber of commerce.

Various individuals are scheduled to assist, with James H. Paulin, junior high school instructor, in general charge of the event.

Presbyterian Women Announce Plans for Spring Ingathering

A spring ingathering of present and former members of the Presbyterian Woman's Missionary society and the Ladies Aid society, is being planned for the regular meetings Thursday, and a special invitation is being extended to all former members and those who do not attend regularly. Present members of the two groups also are urged to bring one or more guests.

Both societies will hold business meetings in the morning, the Missionary group, Mrs. K. W. Fuller president, meeting at 10:30, and being followed by the meeting of the Ladies Aid society.

During the afternoon session plans will be made for the annual church dinner to be held in the evening of Wednesday, April 7.

At the noon hour a progressive luncheon will be served. It is especially requested that reservations be made for the luncheon with Mrs. H. M. Guy or Mrs. F. E. O'Brien.

During the afternoon session the officers recently elected by both groups will be installed by the pastor, the Rev. Rex E. Lawhead.

Mrs. O'Brien will appoint her committees to serve during the coming year.

For the program a newspaper classic will be presented.

Angels Play Final Game Here Tomorrow; Louis Here Thursday

Athletic interest in the Upland district this week is centered on the Angels-Chicago Cubs ball game tomorrow afternoon, in the appearance of Joe Louis, Negro boxer, in the Ontario mit arena Thursday night, and in the preparations for the big Chaffey invitational track meet April 17.

Winning two games on the Fourth street park diamond Saturday and Sunday, the Los Angeles ball club will play their final practice game here tomorrow.

Termed the "Brown Bomber," Louis will make his first California appearance on the current exhibition tour in a four-round bout in the Ontario arena.

Extensive preparations are under way for the big Chaffey meet with at least 500 athletes expected to come from 40 southland schools.
